HINTS OF VALUE

IMPRESSION

being done against a yielding platen, the paper being forced up into the depression of the dies Embossing is principally used for envelopes and may be done with or without color, or part of each. Some of the early issues of the British Colonies are done with and without, while the second issue of Italy are done without color.

Thus we find that five methods of printing are used, lithography, engraving, surface printing, type printing, and embossing.

We will now take up our next subject, vis:-

SEPERATION.

Separation, deviding, parting asunder.

Stamps, as we stated, are printed in sheets of 60, 100, and 120 seperate stamps, and with the earlier issues no official means was provided for their separation thus causing much inconvenience to the public as well as the vendor, these stamps are known as imperfortaed or unperforated.

The principal method used for seperating was cutting apart——
